Memorandum

Subject: Public Review of Right-of-Way Certificate of Access Authorization at Silver Salmon Creek Environmental Assessment

The National Park Service is proposing to issue a Right-of-Way Certificate of Access (RWCA) to Dan and Nancy Farrer who own private property in the Silver Salmon Creek area within Lake Clark National Park and Preserve.

Access to privately-owned land in Alaska national parks is governed by the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (ANILCA) Section 1110(b), which provides that "the State or private owner or occupier shall be given by the Secretary such rights as may be necessary to assure adequate and feasible access for economic or other purposes." An environmental assessment evaluates the effects of the no-action alternative as well as the proposal to issue a RWCA (NPS Preferred Alternative).

The Right-of-Way Certificate of Access Authorization at Silver Salmon Creek Environmental Assessment is available for public review through May 29, 2010. The document can be found at <http://parkplanning.nps.gov/publicHome.cfm> and then selecting Lake Clark from the menu of parks. Instructions for submitting comments are also available at that site.
